

You are cordially invited to participate in
The Housing Agency's June webinar series:

Building Resilient & Sustainable Communities in Ireland

The COVID-19 pandemic has highlighted how important resilient and sustainable communities are to us all.

Decisions we now make in relation to housing, planning and regeneration will play a fundamental role in the future of our communities. Measures that are put in place will need to be ambitious and will require adaptation to a new way of doing things.

This June The Housing Agency will host a series of free expert-led webinars that will consider some of the key elements of future resilient and sustainable communities.

- |                                    |   |
|------------------------------------|---|
| Wednesday 3 June12-1pm  | Collaboratively retrofitting - a discussion on the pre-1919 Glasgow tenement retrofitting demonstration project.Prof Ken Gibb, UK Collaborative Centre for Housing Evidence |
| Wednesday 10 June12-1pm | Regeneration for all: How intergenerational housing can contribute to town and village renewal.Roland Kathus, Matter Architecture   |
| Wednesday 17 June12-1pm | Green spaces, urban places: The importance of green space for neighbourhoods – the Mapping Green Dublin project.Prof Gerald Mills, School of Geography, UCD                 |
| Wednesday 24 June12-1pm | Nature based housing: Solutions for housing developments.Dr Marcus Collier, School of Natural Sciences, Trinity College Dublin  |

To register for one or more of these free webinars, please visit
housingagency.ie/communities-webinars